cause of republicanism. He inherits manently kept at that figure. considerable of his father's talents and of course made a good speech from his standpoint. But the fat and funny looking fellow has seen the error of his way and acknowledged that his father knew more than he does. At a meeting of the Cook county, Ill., democracy the other day he formally and officially joined the ranks and pledged to devote the rest of his days to trying to undo the evil he had done. This is the way he states the case: "Of late years the tendency of the republican party has been to fasten this government under the control of trusts and monopolies. The tendency of the democratic party has been to curtail the power of money and place the government in the political office, was not a candidate for enough to be born on the other side. any State or Federal place, and can not be called a sorehead. I leave the republican party simply because I don't believe in its principles."

Ordinarily a turncoat is about as much entitled to consideration as a sheep killing dog, but there are extenua- business? ting circumstances in Douglas' favor and we accept him as a wanderer returned.

In an interview with the Cincinnati Enquirer Hon. Champ Clark, of Missouri, one of the most picturesque and popular members of Congress, says he is sure that the opposition to the republican party, that is the democrats, silver men and populists, will control the next House of Representatives. It will require a change in only 27 districts and he figures on them with much reason and certainty. A change in only 50 districts would make the next House democratic and that too he thinks probable. The people are dissatisfied with the republican party and in New England especially he expects to see many changes. By the way, Mr. Clark is a Kentuckian by birth and marriage. He was born in Anderson county 48 years ago and married a Miss Bennett, a cousin of Gov. James B. McCreary. John D. White, who is now teaching Brer Boreing Spanish, taught Mr. Clark Latin at the University at Lexington, both being students there. Mr. Clark thinks that Bryan will be renominated in 1900 with a whirl and be elected.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The Lincoln County Teachers met in annual session yesterday at 10 o'clock and Supt. Garland Singleton made a short speech outlining the work. The welcoming address was delivered by Elder Joe Severance in a very earnest and eloquent way and was reponded to by Mr. L. M. Lewis, no less eloquently. Instructor W. C. Grinstead, of Danville, followed in a timely address and urged each teacher to help make this the best institute ever held here. Mr. L. M. THE FORM OF HOLY SCRIPTURE. REV. GEO. O. BARNES' LEGACY TO THE GENERATION PRESENT AND TO

(THIRD INSTALLMENT.)

We have, then, advanced to this point: we deny no fact of all that are advanced by the most vicious adverse in heaven." criticism. We do not defend wrong, in any shape, even though it were possible for God to do it, which it is not. A thing is not right, because God does it. any further than God does it because it is right. Everlasting right stands back of every action of the Omnipotent. Indeed we can not think of any act of the good God, without this prior thought, to build that thought upon. This may seem metaphysical, but it is not. It is axiomatic.

Returning then, we only deny unscriptural deductions from admitted facts. We brush aside all human theo-127 pm ries that dishonor God, or sap the foundations of a living faith, come in what guise of orthodoxy or prescription, they may: and with reverent step lift the curtain that admits us to the "Holy of Holies," where the Godhead dwells:and standing with uncovered heads, and unshod feet, listen to the sacred oracles. that, alone, can explain the mysteries of life. "CUR DEUS HOMO?" is the question the school-men have attempted in vain to answer, simply, because they made the fatal admission, to begin with, that a good God can "do evil, that good may come." Sift all their theories to the bottom, this is the dreadful residuum. Anselm's answer to the question has shaped the current theology of all the sects for 800 years, and it is based upon as black a lie, as the "Father of lies" ever deluded a good man with. It satisfy His own sense of justice. A frightful wrong committed-the "just dying for the unjust-to make the right appear right." It is difficult to think or speak patiently of this monstrous slander, given currency for ages, without serious protest, on the character of the Blessed God. It matters not that millions have been educated to believe it. Millions do not sanctify error. And let us always remember that millions only mean one, when their opinions are reduced to the last analysis. Men follow leaders, as sheep a "bell-wether." and as blindly, Mohammedanism, Buddhism, Confucianism, Calvinism, Wesleyism, Lutherism, Campbellism, all resolve themselves, severally, into the dogmatic opinion of one man. are mere consequences. Let no one, therefore, be afraid to investigate or believe, because the 'broad road' of current opinion is crowded with passengers; for God is "stronger" than the devil, as Scripture declares; and He could, at once, have lets, rates and time tables for all re put forth His countervailing strength, in a triumphant recovery of His hopetence helpless to deliver, by the mere putting forth of power. Even now, when we stand on the ground of grace. with all its precious promises sounding in our ears, how helpless it is to save the sinner who will not believe, and what is belief but the surrender of the free will of man? The weakness of a the Devil on his usurped throne, to-day; and keep our God from Hisright to rule the earth in joy and peace. When even a "working majority" of these free wills come over to the Lord's side, the Millennium will be here; and when all yield, heaven will come to earth, and His "will be done on that earth, as it is Returning to Eden-what is now to be done? The sentence of death has gone forth. Satan deluded but to slay. He is "a murderer from the beginning." and will not now forego his hateful purpose to destroy his victims. The "Lord-God" had warned His creatures that speedy death would result from eating the poisoned fruit of the fatal tree that Satan had planted "in the midst of the garden." It was no holy infliction of God's justice, but a warning of the Devil's cruelty that breathed in that solemn sentence: "In the day thou eatest thereof, thou shalt surely die." And yet they did not die. That is clear, from the narrative. Something died in their stead, as all Scripture delares; but they did not die. Evidently, there was an interposition that saved them. What was it?

Now, my reader, try and take in the situation. Satan is triumphant, and with a right to kill his cowering victims, who have, too late, discovered the frightful mistake they have made. A pitying God looks upon the scene, intent on rescue, but helpless, by mere power, to save. It is a case for diplomacy. It is wisdom, not force, that now comes to the front. And we are compelled, knowing what we do of the results of the tragic interviewer; knowing, as we a destroyed serpent and a "bruised heel;" and Paradise is regained in the promise of what the "Seed of the Wocharges God with the death of His Son man" should do; we are compelled, I -the crime of all crimes-in order to urgently insist, to fill in the missing links in the chains of the skeleton record of Gen. III; always promising, that it must be an entry in accordance with the analogy of Scripture, and, in nothing, a violation of the Truth. This, then, we are forced to admit by the proprieties of the narrative, that the overture of deliverance for Adam and Eve must come from the "Lord-God," if they are to be rescued, at all Satan is master of the situation, now, much as we dislike to think it. But facts are facts: and this is the awful one, that the Lord of Heaven and earth must sue for terms from the Devil, if He carries out His plan to deliver man. It is the one great tragedy of sacred History. Gethsemane and Golgotha ble as it is to write it, or even think it. Satan has God in his accursed power The Lord of Glory must submit to a
